Shedding

Green & Blond Sphagnum Moss increase tank humidity to make shedding a breeze. Healthy shedding leaves beautiful new scales.

Hydrate

Sheet Moss is an amphibian essential! Moss holds the moisture in tropical forests and allows Frogs to drink.

Hiding

Snakes, Lizards, and Geckos love hiding underneath Pillow Moss. It keeps them hydrated and away from natural predators!

Cypress Tank-Mulch

Natural Cypress Bedding
for Humidity-Loving Reptiles

Use Galápagos' Tank-Mulch to build the ideal woodland bedding! Add enough to allow animals to burrow or to sufficiently cover the base of the terrarium. An even mix of Tank-Mulch and Tropicoco works great for amphibians, while larger humidity-loving reptiles can use 100% Cypress. Completing your tropical habitat with a thin layer of Golden or Green Sphagnum Moss will help maintain optimum humidity, making it easier to clean and maintain your terrarium.

M Natural Spanish Moss

Controls Tropical & Wetland Humidity

Galápagos Preserved Spanish Moss is ideal for Tropical & Forest Terrariums because it naturally grows in wet, humid environments. The locals call it "Old Man's Beard" because of its stringy, long strands and spooky, Southern feeling. Spanish Moss naturally grows hanging from trees, so it looks best dangling off branches like Jungle Wood, Spider Wood, or Mossy Sticks. It can also be used to decorate hides like Mossy Caves. Spanish Moss is 100% natural and safe for animals.
