B BEDDINGS

galápagos® REPTILE GEAR

Why Terrarium BEDDINGS?

Floor Cover

Cypress Mulch, Jurassic Fir Bark, Tropicoco® Husk and Magnolia Leaves provide a natural substrate as the foundation for your reptile's terrarium. These substrates not only look great but ease the shedding process by providing rougher textures to start the shed and increased humidity to ensure the smoothest shed.

Burrowing

Aspen Digs, Tropicoco® Soil, and Bioactive Soil provide soft, clean burrowing substrates for a variety of different species. These substrates provide burrowing animals the safety and security they need.

Cleanliness

Mossy Crashpad® and Coco Fiber Crashpad® offer an alternative to traditional bedding with their easy to clean surface and little to no risk of impaction. The soft surface allows even the most delicate animal a natural bedding option.

B Cypress Tank-Mulch

Natural Cypress Bedding
for Humidity-Loving Reptiles

Use Galápagos Tank-Mulch to build the ideal woodland bedding! Add enough to allow animals to burrow or to sufficiently cover the base of the terrarium. An even mix of Tank-Mulch and Tropicoco works great for amphibians, while larger humidity-loving reptiles can use 100% Cypress. Completing your tropical habitat with a thin layer of Golden or Green Sphagnum Moss will help maintain optimum humidity, making it easier to clean and maintain your terrarium.

WOODS

Why Terrarium NATURAL WOOD?

Basking Spot

Cholla Wood and Walking Wood make excellent basking spots for reptiles. Natural wood does not retain as much heat as plastic or resin décor making wood the safer choice for your pet.

Exploration

Driftwood and Staghorn Wood help provide enrichment to reptiles, fish, and birds. Different textures, shapes, and sizes create new terrain to explore and stimulate your pet's mind.

Unique

All our Woods are completely Natural and harvested in a sustainable manner. Because each piece of wood is unique, every terrarium and aquarium you make will be one of a kind.

E ELECTRONICS

galápagos® REPLEAR GEAR

Why Terrarium ELECTRONICS?

Heat Behavior Health

Basking Bulbs, Ceramic Heat Emitters, and Geotherm UTHs are ideal sources of heat for reptiles and amphibians. These heat sources help to provide a heat gradient that allows reptiles to thermoregulate their body temperatures.

Basking Bulbs and other Galápagos lights that provide UVA are vital to the immune system, feeding response, and in promoting the natural behavior of reptiles.

Mercury Bulbs and T5 Lights provide the UVB light necessary for Calcium D3 absorption. This is essential for the proper development of bone, muscle, and heart health.
